

Here is the 2D study where I translated light density patterns into chartable topographies