2 Soft rocks

South African Ronél Jordaan has been working as a textile designer for over thirty years and has built up a large body of work, largely inspired by nature and made from 100% Merino wool felt. Her felted rock cushions are hand-dyed, and available in a range of colours and sizes for indoor and outdoor use.

3 Tomorrow's textile professionals

Inspired by the concept of 'de-collage', fashion design student Daniela Schmidt created a unique print by removing pieces of an original poster and digitally editing and simplifying the image. For her final year project at the HTW Berlin University of Applied Sciences, Daniela designed a collection combining décollage print with different materials such as silk, wool, denim and leather.

1 Iris Maschek Wallpapers

Cologne-based designer Iris Maschek started developing and manufacturing wallpaper in 2006 after a successful career designing textiles and wall treatments for a variety of European brands. Recognizable by their abstract patterns that create a stunning illusion of depth, these wallpapers bring minimalist but dramatic touches of glamour to any conceivable space.
