

The long horizontal form came about from the sketches to the left. The building ended up having a cantilever over the south east entrance, allowing it to stick out ;however, not too much so it would still fit in with the streetscape.

South West Section

