

a spring breeze arrives and bring a small butterfly to the tulips field. The sky is blue and the sun is rising. The trees are green and fresh. The rabbits are jumping around on the hill. The flowers are blooming and bringing sweet. The bees work hard to make honey in their honeycomb, looking after their family.

I remember, it was bleak December,
the separate dying ember its ghost upon the floor.
I wished the morning, -vinyly ought to borrow
by books success of sorrow - sorrow
