

Children's Healthcare of Atlanta
Stair Gym

Designed to get Fit and have Fun

The Stair Gym captures the essence of the Strong4Life initiative at Children's Healthcare of Atlanta. The initiative is a comprehensive wellness program that encourages a healthy lifestyle by promoting nutrition, physical activity, and fun. The challenge consisted of reenvisioning a complex back of house stair well into an inspiring upbeat space that encourages exercise and fun.

Some design challenges included preexisting conditions such as large mechanical & electrical fixtures, multiple split levels, and life safety lighting. The design intent was to create an engaging environment that captures the experience of scaling a mountain. This was accomplished by using large scale graphics and inspirational quotes combined with coordinated color and sustainable materials. The result is an eye-catching atmosphere that encourages the staff to take the stairs instead of the elevators. To date the Stair Gym has helped employees walk over 201,962,407 steps or 100,980 miles!

Designed while employed by Stanley Beaman & Sears.
