

firefly

Autism Communication Device

firefly is a handheld communication device and messenger for children with Autism that aims to ease the frustration caused by limited communication by predicting the child's needs and wants through a series of simple yes or no questions.

