"COMING OUT WITH NOTHING ON,"
MAY 1962 MONROE5

"SAYS EVERYTHING, BUT SHOWS NOTHING,"
MAY 1962 MONROE1

"A SPLASH OF MARILYN,"
MAY 1962 MONROE2

Rarely seen photographs of Marilyn Monroe, taken just weeks before her death in 1962, are being made available to the general public for the first time.

The New York Times Store is offering these remarkable images of the Hollywood goddess as numbered limited-edition prints, signed by award-winning photographer Lawrence Schiller.

These revealing photos capture Marilyn Monroe in a playful mood in a poolside shoot during the never-finished film "Something's Got to Give." To make the photos truly historic, Marilyn jumped into the water with a bathing suit on and came out with nothing on.

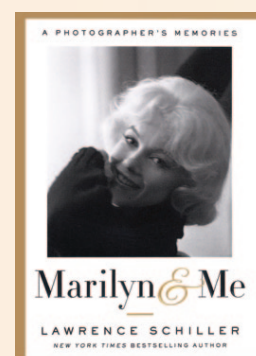

Only now, on the eve of the 50th anniversary of the screen legend's death on August 5, 1962, are these images being offered for sale outside photo galleries.
