

Camelot

From 1960 to '65 a feeling of wonder and excitement gripped the world. Kennedy was inaugurated as president in '61 and his stunning wife Jackie set the world of fashion ablaze!

The underground music seen in England was building towards unexpected and dizzying heights and Marilyn Monroe took the blond bomb shell to the epitome of sexy and sultry sophistication.

Warhol was dominating the art scene with mass produced, multicolored images of iconic figures, while Twiggy, Mary Quant and Vidal Sassoon, redefined the a new look for the 'modern girl.'
