Since 2004, Pam has served as Vice Chair at the company with $371 billion in assets, the parent company of U.S. Bank, the nation's 5th largest. Just named the fourth most powerful woman in banking by American Banker, she also heads U.S. Bancorp's payment services division as Chairman and CEO of Elavon Inc. Previously she worked at VISA and Wells Fargo Bank. She serves on the boards of Paychex, Inc. and Centene Corporation, is a trustee for Spelman College and chairman of WLA Kids, which educates young women in Africa.

Pamela Joseph Vice Chair, U.S. Bancorp

As CEO of the company known for revolutionizing the shapewear industry with the footless pantyhose, Jan oversees all product offerings; Hosiery, Intimate, Active Life, Swim and Men's apparel, sold in 50 countries. She joined Spanx from Nike, Inc., where she served as Corporate VP of Global Apparel and Global Footwear. There, she managed multi-billion dollar product engines that created industry-defining innovations serving elite and everyday athletes. Prior to that, she served as the VP and GM of Global Product, Merchandising and Marketing at Reebok and played key marketing and communications roles at Chanel, Calvin Klein and Prada.

Jan Singer CEO, Spanx

In her role as CFO since 2001, Carol is the only member of the Executive Leadership Team to have worked alongside each of the company's CEOs from the founders to incoming CEO Craig Menear. Under her leadership in the last five years, The Home Depot returned $27 billion to shareholders. Included in most powerful women in business lists, she serves on corporate boards including UPS and the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta. She still makes time to give back to The Committee of 200, American Red Cross, Atlanta Botanical Garden and others.

Carol Tomé CFO, The Home Depot