

Commercial

A Beauty Clinic was planned to be set up in an existing building that was previously used as a residence

The client was aiming for a clean, and contemporary look very different than the existing building at the site, built in a neo-colonial style very common in parts of São Paulo

The façade is composed by planes, platbands that conceal the existing building and achieve the minimalism mentioned in the briefing.

The simple lines are tempered by the contrast of the textured plaster in pastel tones, the smoothness of the metal canopy and glass panels and the colorful vertical garden

Front Façade – Since the parking area was occupying most of the set back area at the front, a single vase with a vertical garden background at the niche was proposed
