FACE TIME

The beef between Dominick Cruz and Urijah Faber started simmering back in 2007 when Cruz scrawled his signature over Faber's face on posters promoting their first fight. The assistant coaches of Team Faber settled that particular score by touching up Cruz's portrait at The Ultimate Fighter Live Training Center. And then, to get ahead of any retaliation from Team Cruz, they got to work on Faber's poster. Both teams laughed it off according to producers. And rightfully so, come June 1, Cruz and Faber will get to work out all of their grudges in the Octagon.
