

LIFE

2.3 Billion Years Ago

Esstiko Tupi was now ready something incredible to happen. The whole planet was covered by trillions of gallons of milk, thousands of feet deep. Over time the planet was bombarded with asteroids and meteors, which contained life in the forms of tiny microscopic bacteria known as Streptococcus thermophilus and Lactobacillus helveticus. These tiny beings quickly multiplied and with their yellow pigment gave the planet its color.