

This is an interior design project that I developed during my internship at The Apartment design agency. I had the task of designing the boys' rooms and their playroom. The clients wanted to have a bunk bed with a desk underneath, a second bed in the niche, and a single bed that becomes a bench in the other room.

In the playroom, they wanted to have the TV integrated in a bookcase, and a computer area (see Wave, p. 26).
