

Top water container fittings

The extrusion at the base of the container is to protect it from mud when placed on the ground. It also secures a better fit when introduced in the clean water container and the handles clicked.

The filter sits clipped in a bayonet fitting in the top water containers at the base of the container in a funnel shape. The water falls in the filter due to gravity.

Research

Development

Final

Engineering

Ergonomics