Name: Abana Kontar
Age: 45
Occupation: Housewife
Country: Ghana
Children: 5
Household income per month: £40

"If I don't go early in the morning to fetch water people will think that I am lazy and a bad wife and they will gossip."
"I wish that I could have more time to earn an income to send my children to the doctor when needed."

Raised in a very traditional family where moral values are very important.

Self-conscious about her attributes in the family, she never complains.

Before being married and having children Abana was working as a tailor and was able to sustain herself.

Name: Tawiah Sisi
Age: 32
Occupation: Housewife
Country: Mali
Children: 3
Household income per month: £50

"The containers have 20 liters and we have to carry them on our heads for more than 3 hours daily. When we get home the water is dirty and we get diarrhoea and stomach pains."

After taking care of sending the kids to school Tawiah goes for fetching water two villages from where she lives as there is the only place where a water pump has been installed.

She is now pregnant and she will carry water on her head until the day she'll give birth as she did with the previous 3 kids.
