At Sonos, we're all about innovation. That's why we're at the forefront of the music revolution in the home—offering you an unmatched music experience designed to enhance your lifestyle.

This revolution is ongoing, which means you'll continue to see Sonos updates like our latest: new releases of the ZonePlayer™ 120 and ZonePlayer 90, and of SonosNet 2.0, our wireless mesh network.

We've recently launched our new Web site. Check it out. Of particular note are our new demo, owner stories, and insights from our engineers into the creative process at Sonos.

Our music partnerships keep evolving too. Rhapsody—which is rapidly becoming the go-to music service—now offers you a new DRM-free store for downloads.

One more thing: if you haven't already updated or registered your Sonos software, do it soon. You'll then be able to access even more music, including free downloads worth $200.

I think that about covers it. Hey, who says you can't improve upon perfection?

See a demo, find a store, or order at our NEW Web site: Sonos.com
