

Point them to their customers.

Making money for your clients doesn't always mean finding new customers. In fact, the customers they already have can be their greatest source of revenue growth. And marketing to them with email is the smart way to capitalize on it.

Consider our Business Partner Program. We make it simple for you to include the power of email marketing in your service offerings to your small business and non-profit clients.

Just ask our more than 3,600 Business Partners and they'll tell you Constant Contact will give you the tools you need to set up, manage, and track revenue-generating email campaigns and online surveys for your clients – and your agency.

It's easy to get started today. Just visit us online or give us a call. We'll help you to point your clients in a whole new direction.
