

At the present, I can be the paradoxical traits could be on a non-

As a first generation Asian American, I used to be a conservative, Christian household

I used to struggle with big questions concerning purpose, individuality, and existence.

I have emerged more self-aware and confident as a writer, a first, and a trained after a year in writing but not so much in hard working with bouts of about,

sarcasm yet nice and friendly