

Development of First Page

I used the filter effects to create a rougher texture which looked more artistic and then I used the lighten tool to create a faded look. Now it fits in more with the theme of the magazine.

I used the pen and polygon tool to create shapes that area associated with Alice in Wonderland. Then I created a repetitive pattern and placed the title off centre. I thought this was more interesting that the centre where it stood out too much. I felt this page was too different to my front cover and I wanted to make the image more subtle.
