Grids are good
What is a grid?

In graphic design terms, a grid separates a page into vertical and horizontal divisions. These divisions could include:

- Margins at the edge of the page
- Columns dividing the page vertically
- Rows dividing the page horizontally
- Spaces between blocks of type and or images
- Spaces between individual rows of type

A grid provides you with a modular system on which to build a layout methodically. There are no set rules about the size of margins, or about the spacing or number of columns and rows. Those decisions are yours to make.
