

Concept Two

Station Enclosure

The design provides a distraction from the donation process by incorporating a digital screen into the Station. The form allows the donor to fully lie down, in a temperature controlled Station, giving a more relaxed user experience. The organic shape moulds with the armrest to give a less clinical appearance.

The design emphasises relaxation. The style is organic, taking away traditional aspects to a blood donation chair. The Station creates an atmosphere where the donor can almost hide away. The Station allows the user to place their arm away from the enclosure so that there is a barrier inbetween the sight of the needle. The Station hangs, which gives a new experience for the donor.
