Data Analysis

Writing quotes from interviews on note cards makes it easy to move information around and group together related comments

Color coding: Using different color note cards to represent a group of people (age, city, etc) can help to reveal patterns after the cards are organized.

Sorting the cards helps show groups/categories and gives perspective of scope/size. Frustrations, motivations, influencing factors, can be reveled through finding patterns in groups of cards.