

BOHEMIAN BAZAAR

Many Millennials continue to be interested in travel and other cultures. Their appreciation for genuine artisanal work is reflected in the way they decorate their living spaces. Prints and patterns with a “native” hand continue to be popular in fashion, and are becoming more mainstream for the home. Textiles with ombre and shibori effects are high in demand. Texture is the biggest trend that will be here for years to come. Mixing eclectic woven pieces with accessories of multiple colors is an easy way to tap into worldly style. From playful handmade accents to rich global influence, “Bohemian Bazaar” is a way for consumers to bring other cultures to the outdoor space.

JEWEL TONES

Warm neutrals and chocolates act as a backbone for rich jewel tones like peacock, indigo, and pine. This color palette features fiery reds and rust colors, gold and silver accents, and periwinkle as the latest neutral.
