

MINIMALLY MODERN

Modern design has made its way into the patio furniture industry. The simple silhouettes make it easy for consumers to decorate how they choose, so these pieces versatile and timeless. New materials add a creative touch, and mixing up the configuration of sets is unexpected, yet welcome. Simplicity with a bold edge is key for consumers who are drawn to this style.

Mid-Century Modern design also has a hand in this style category. It reached its peak over the last few years, but it's not gone yet. We are still seeing its influence, particularly in accessory design.

Simple, yet creative forms, shaped metals, and a range of colors are all important to this style category.

MIXING IT UP

More creative configurations will peak consumers' interests. Woven chairs pair well with slat pieces. Picnic benches will be more popular, creating an inclusive atmosphere.

NEW MATERIALS

Upholstery and concrete, previously unseen in outdoor furniture, are becoming more popular as people seek out unique ways to furnish their outdoor spaces.

TONES WITH A POP

Taupes, grays and browns are brought to life by saturated brights to make this color palette pop. Pair contrasting colors or stay within a color family.
