

Rebirth Consulting to Design By Candlelight

I am shifting the direction of Rebirth Consulting back to Design by Candlelight. The second logo is representing that shift. It's going to be the future DBC logo with a bit more contrast and life to it and the flame of the candle so that it represents all that I do now with RC but saying "all this' done in the dark". Which is going to be my slogan for the new look.

IMIC to Health Bridge

This is from my thesis project in grad school. The project is an online application that facilitates communication between patients and doctors. Which logo do you think gives a clearer picture of the objective? The first is the original name till I came up with the new one and the new focus.

Photo Nomad

This is a current personal project I am working on. The objective of the site is to take the viewer (or nomad) on a journey around the world through a series of posts done by photo journalists (people whom sign up to post their photos and thoughts for the world to see). We hope to have a world wide reach someday so a farmer in Thailand or a villager in Africa or a city girl in NYC could post.