

EDGE

Advanced Sports Watch

or

Bio-Feedback Product Design

The goal of this project was to design a biofeedback device. We were to research and design a product that could read biological inputs from the human body. The path chosen for this project was an advanced fitness watch that would combine body fat analyzer with the many functions of modern sport watches into one compact and functional product.

