

Natural Health: Online Conference Series

Welcome to the Clayton College of Natural Health Online Conference Series. Enjoy conference presentations from some of the leading educators in natural health, holistic nutrition, traditional naturopathy, and practitioner development. With a unique combination of subject matter, the presenters will engage you in a discovery of natural health concepts that shape our holistic community.

As one of the original natural health sciences college in the United States, CCNH proudly continues to serve its community with this online conference series designed to bring together great and empowering minds. As we continue to share the common desire to live a healthier life, we invite you to walk with us on the path to well-being and higher education.
