

COLOR IS THE CATALYST FOR DESIGN

Flex is a product of design through form experimentation. The following image displays a moment in my life where darkness gives birth to two instances of reality. One where I do exist, and one in which I do not. Using the ideas from this event, I began deriving forms surrounding the ideas of life and death, creating a contrast between the two.

