

The Cyptians

The Cyptians were born asexually out of parts of the cave walls that had bonded with protiens from mold species. The Cyp-tians budded out of the walls, and since then have continued to develop into more complex organisms. Their growth and development has been perpetuated by one thing: The continuous consumption of mold nutrients.

