

At Rexnord, we don't simply understand equipment...
We understand your business.

Every day, our 3,500 associates solve engineering problems, keep critical systems up and running, and help build strong infrastructures. During our history spanning more than 100 years of providing Power Transmission solutions, we have met and solved the productivity and profitability challenges that your business faces.

- Our seasoned sales, technical and support professionals have designed solutions in facilities just like yours. Understanding how your system is built and works means less downtime and improved productivity.
- Our unsurpassed technical support professionals work with you to repair and replace any component to keep your operation running smoothly.
- Our team partners with more than 2,000 local distributors who are ready to deliver the products you need, wherever you need them.
- To ensure top performance, we can deploy training personnel at a moment's notice to meet any challenge you might encounter.

We'd be honored to learn about your process and your facility. More importantly, we'd like to share the knowledge we've acquired to help you run your business even smarter.
