

A green ribbon extends from street-level and continues through the building, continually traversing levels, creating a patio outside the north facade (above), and continuing to the outer first roof of the existing MoMA.

View from 53rd Street