Aura Chair

Whether buying for a two-man office or a large corporate headquarters, purchasing an office chair can be a complicated and confusing event. Aura, the latest in ergonomic seating from JG, eliminates the hassle in making this transaction by offering all of the features that a serious buyer would require.

- Advanced Ergonomics—The Aura series has been designed around a revolutionary mechanism which provides passive, weight independent ergonomic movements. Through the use of a simple tension mechanism, large and small users alike will receive the same relative support and counter pressure making Aura a seating series which fits any type of user and task.
- Simplicity—Many of the popular 'ergonomic' chairs have a battery of adjustments and controls which are difficult to operate and seldom used. Aura seating provides adjustments which are useful and easy to operate.
- Two Sizes—Aura chairs have been dimensioned for use at every office level. Desk chairs are sized for economical space utilization typically required by clerical and administrative functions. Executive chairs are larger and more luxurious than desk models and are ideal for high level executive and managerial applications.
- Value—Extraordinary design and engineering allow JG to offer Aura at a cost considerably lower than most European imports and competitively priced with many domestically produced chairs. In addition to a reasonable purchase price, Aura offers superior quality, outstanding performance and numerous product advantages which are hard to find on chairs costing much more.
- Delivery—Most of the Aura models are available through the JG Seven Day Seating Express Program. Consult the JG price list for details.
- European Design—JG is the exclusive USA licensee/manufacturer for the Aura seating series. Aura was designed and engineered by the team of Uredat-Neuhoff for Ahrend/Cirkel bv of Holland.

The Aura executive series consists of four models which are ideal for use in managerial and executive applications. The executive chairs are distinguished by the striking sectional upholstery and fully upholstered outside back. All executive models are designed with a wider, more luxurious seat and back along with a larger armrest to provide comfort and support demanded by upper management users.

All executive models are equipped with the passive synchronized mechanism. The sled base side chair has a non-locking movement while the swivel chairs can be locked in any position. Pneumatic height adjustment and five-star bases are standard on all swivel versions. Optional ABS arm caps are available for the side chair. Upholstered armrests are available for the executive swivel chairs.

Clerical, data entry and administrative functions usually require smaller scale seating which allow for maximum mobility in a work environment where space is often limited. The Aura desk chairs meet this space requirement without sacrificing comfort, appearance or quality. Like the Aura executive chairs, all desk models are equipped with the passive lockable synchronized mechanism, pneumatic height adjustment and five-star base. ABS back and seat pans are standard, providing easy maintenance and protection against damage from other office equipment. Armrests and upholstered cushions can be easily removed and replaced in the field.
