

My goal is to illustrate just how fuzzy the edges of reality can actually be. No absolute predefine boundary just having vague non-discript overlapping shapes. Most squares have a totally different meaning to certain individuals, which plays right into the grand scheme of things.

ABSOLUT GRIDLOCK