

Research

Hartz bottles are designed with grips on the side but you can't affectively squeeze the bottle from the side. So when it is applied to the pet the consumer must move hand from grips. This makes it hard to hold the bottle while try to hold the pet at the same time.

