

FORM & MOCKUPS

I fabricated the sole of the shoe from thick acrylic and thin rubber, and glued it to the bottom of an old shoe. The model flexes while walking, but becomes stiff when the foot is on the pedal.

I experimented with form by creating mockups focusing on flexibility of the sole. I also cut an old bike shoe in half to explore its manufacturing process.

