

DIRECTION

Attempts to address a seemingly obvious gap in the current market for SIDS prevention, designing an attachment for the crib to ensure proper air circulation in order to prevent the child from inhaling their own carbon dioxide.

