

ABOUT ME

Biography:

Joshua Ross is originally from Hildebran, North Carolina and moved to Boone to attend Appalachian State University. The friendly atmosphere in this little-big town had helped persuade his decision in attending ASU. Although Joshua's original path was Architectural Technology, his creative personality steered him in the direction to pursue a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Design. In short, Joshua is a creatively smart individual that would love to contribute his ideas through design.

Design Philosophy:

My name is Joshua Ross, and I have an addiction. I am addicted to analyzing everything around me as though improvements could be made. I like to take inspiration through absorption; taking in all that surrounds me, and approach designs head on. Although my primary goal is to find any type of employment as a designer, my biggest interest is the automotive industry in which I am an avid enthusiast. I have one gear: GO!
