The Advice Giver

Boys, school, or family — no matter what the problem is, you're always willing to lend a listening ear to your friends. You love to help analyze sticky situations and tackle the toughest issues with those you care about. Your great insight and honesty make your buds feel super comfortable talking to you about anything. They trust you very much and count on you to keep their secrets!

The Day Brightener

When a friend has a bad day, they know just who to turn to — you! Your smile is contagious and your optimistic nature can lift even the lowest of spirits. Whether it's cracking a joke or doing a silly dance, you'll do whatever it takes to bring joy to those you care about, and you help pals see the bright side of every situation. Just make sure you look on the upside of your own life as well!

The Event Planner

You are a social butterfly and a walking agenda book! When it comes to organizing parties, you're the one to call in! Your friends know they can count on you to make things happen, and you love taking charge of a boring Saturday night and turning it into a get together to remember! You absolutely love being a busy bee, but don't forget to sit back and relax every once in a while!
