

M.A.K.E. Space - collaborative creative exploration

A new library model teaches creativity and sustainable practices to the diverse community of downtown Oakland. It houses a collection of DIY centered literature and media and has spaces to support activities such as textile and zine creation, bicycle maintenance, painting, film editing, practicing instruments, beat-boxing, general crafting areas and a lecture/performance hall. M.A.K.E. Space promotes a hands-on approach to learning that fosters creativity and encourages people from all backgrounds to learn from and teach one another.

exploded axonometric of drop ceilings

