

Cup Form Development

The current Soup at Hand cup shape is too tippy and results in severe burns. My ideations considered lowering the soup's center of mass, adding handles or changing the shape to grasp more easily, and balancing the cup externally with extendable arms. The section view of the final cup with lowered center of mass is below.

Current product doesn't fit well in the hand, easy to drop

