

Pop-up Retail & Endcap

For the retail, I went for the simple idea of having everything divided by color. Each box contains a fully built compartment. There is a model of the final piece on display and the iPads show the different environments where it can be used.