

Folding Chairs

Since Timbuk2 is a soft goods company it only made sense that a folding chair designed for them should be made out of fabric, this ruled out solid plastic chairs. The chair needed to be compact, so chairs that only fold in half would be too large.

A tri-pod chair makes the most sense for Timbuk2 because it would use fabric, could be folded quite small, and would reflect the tri-band motif in their products.

