Welcome to issue one of Ma.tter Ma.gazine.

This magazine was born out of a frustration with the lack of experimentation with digital editorial design. This was therefore created in order to change the way we read & use digital magazines, designed in a different way to purposefully increase reader engagement and improve information intake. Each piece of text content is designed to the normal standards, but is overlayed on top of other elements of the page, making each piece slightly more difficult to read.

Now please see our guide for instructions on how to use this magazine before you get started
