

What if a product “honestly” communicated the effects of its existence?

