

FLOW

office desking system

FLOW system:

...the flow system idea came up when Gavin Woo, Katrina Tan and me discussed the future of office work on a conceptual level...

the conclusion was that future offices will have a strong need for communication, teamwork and interaction... and will use much more tables and workstations on a standing-height... These higher table tops allow fast touchdown work and also short informal meetings among the teams.... and reduce the health problems office-workers get from sitting all day long... a continuous change between sitting and standing at a worktable fits perfect to nowadays office work.....after preparing the first design sketches it became clear that we want to support the daily office work with the design and the visual appearance of the workstations.

The "workflow" should be visually represented by the tables themselves ...therefore we designed the tabletop-connecting ramps which give the tables a fluid ongoing wave-like design. The ramps are also functional used as they are the access-flap to the wiring and cable channel...

the FLOW system with its light elegant design is a new modular table system which creates landscapes for the newer generation of offices...and at the same time is a progressive design answer to the needs of office work

by werner aisslinger nov 2009

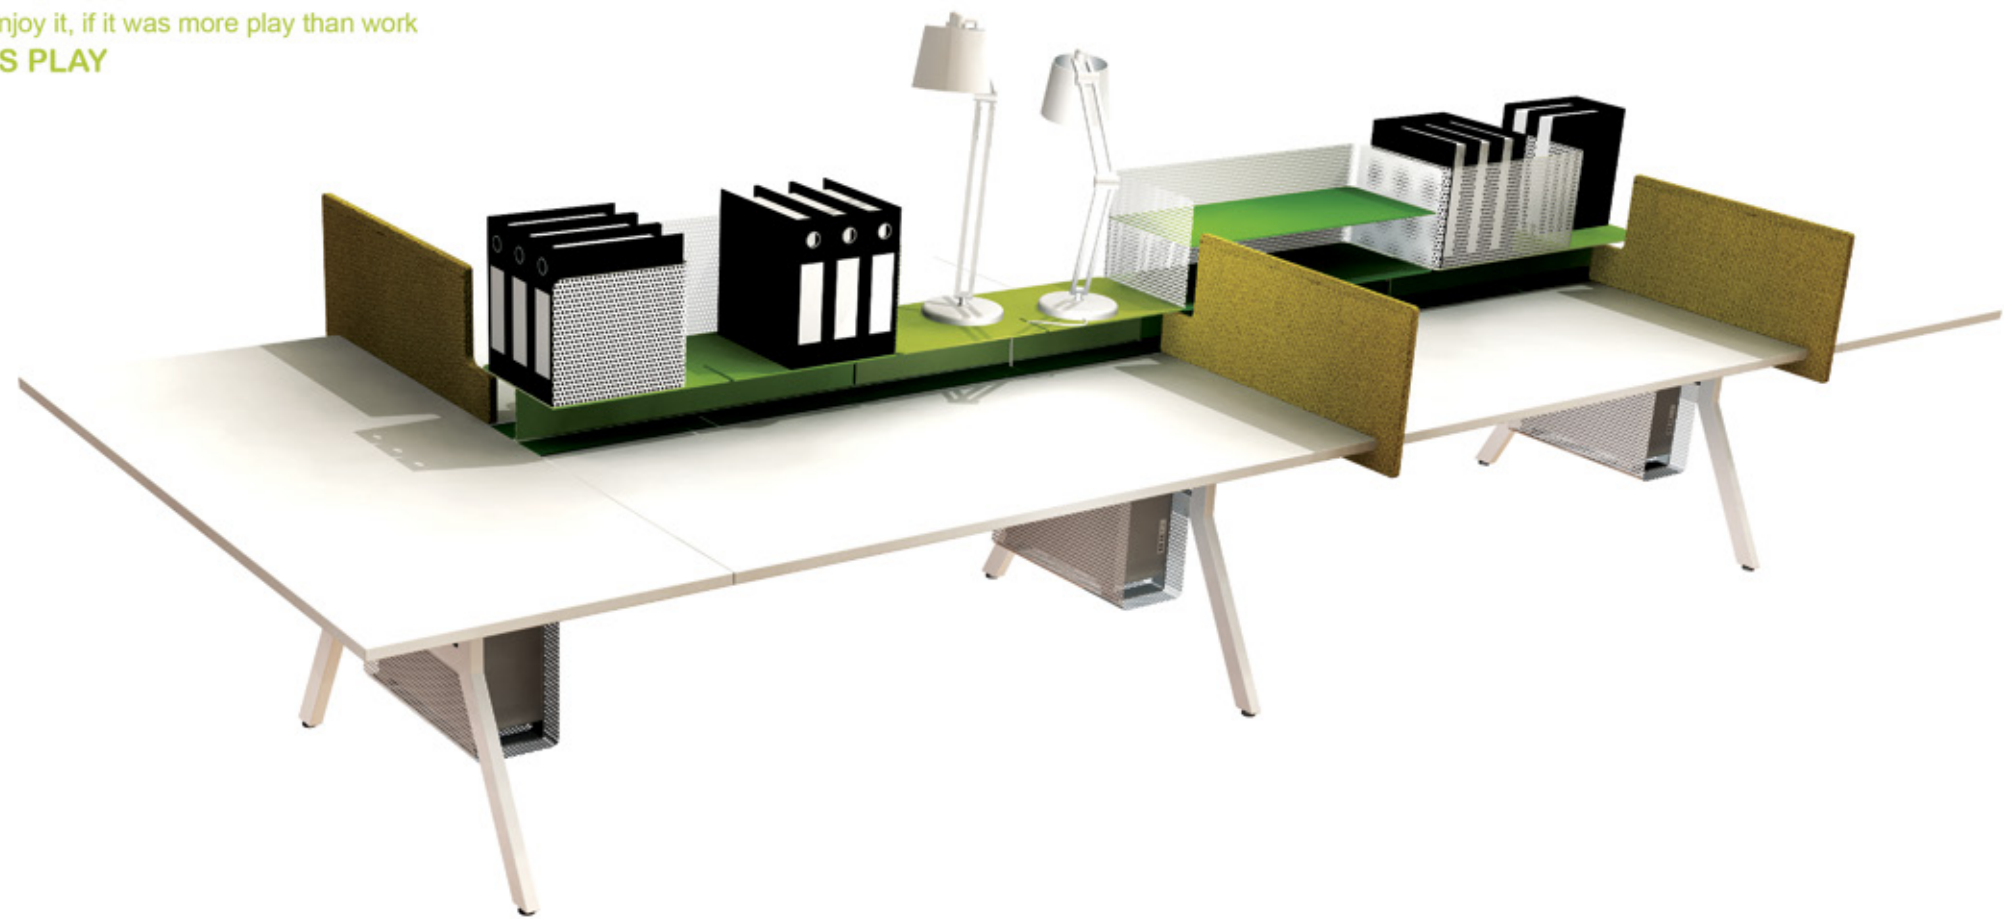

Werner Aisslinger

FLOW - a new office language

CHANGING THE OFFICE LANDSCAPE

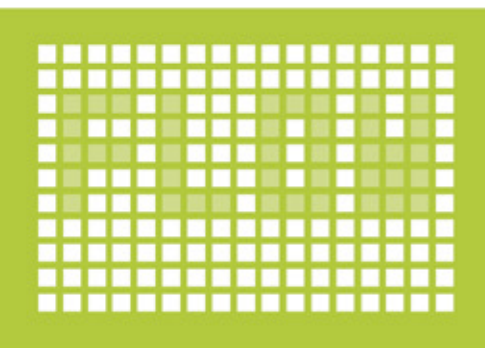

Work - the new PLAY!

We spent all our lives working so much so that work becomes our life, work gives us purpose in life, we need to enjoy it, if we are going to enjoy it, we need to work at being happy at work, We will enjoy it, if it was more play than work so LET'S PLAY

WORK

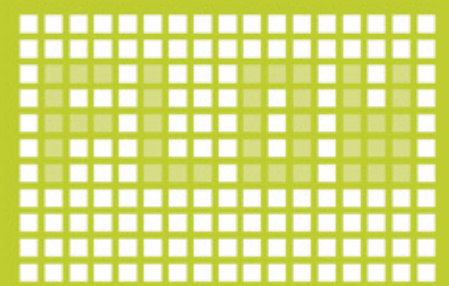

- reconfigurable
- communicative
- transformable
- interactive

OPEN

never Limiting

STEP UP STEP DOWN
VARYING WORKING LEVELS

More Choice
More Exposure
More Information
More Exchange

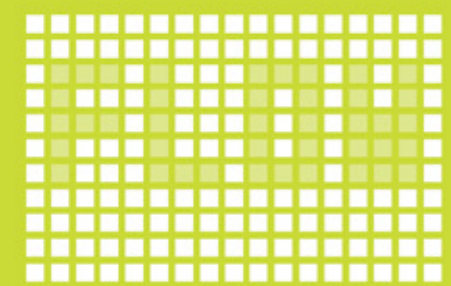

FLOW designs and revolutionize the office from a single plane to a multi dimensional work space.

The multi tier work place is not only about the hierarchy but the different levels of designs waiting to be discovered and realized.

Personal development is the key to a productive mental and physical state.

Work is no longer confined to the desk, the efficient office space is one that communicates and interacts.

MY LIFE
MY PASSION
MY CONTRIBUTION

SIT • STAND • STORE

The different levels of FLOW reflect the way we live and work. The professional that works, sits and stands, efficiently functions on more than one position.

Why sit, when you can stand and communicate so much more.

END?

FLOW IS WHERE A NEW REVOLUTION BEGINS

www.o-planner.com