

Problem

BOX is a highly creative and innovative product in children's furniture. However, because of its non-traditional nature, consumers may be reluctant to buy the product without trying it first. BOX requires a solution that introduces and educates the public about its product in a way that conveys its tactile nature.

