

An intimate world-class retreat, Rosewood Inn of the Anasazi celebrates the enduring creative spirit of the region's early Native Americans and the rich heritage of city's Spanish founders. The name and interiors of the boutique hotel pay homage to the area's indigenous Anasazi tribe, while the handcrafted textiles, paintings, carvings and weavings that make up the hotel's extensive art collection are a vivid representation of the Native, Hispanic and Anglo influences that created Santa Fe, one of America's oldest and most beautiful cities. Spread across a high plateau at the foot of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains, New Mexico's capital still glories in the adobe houses and baroque churches of its original architects, while its chic museums and galleries attract art lovers from all over the world.

ROSEWOOD
INN OF THE ANASAZI®
SANTA FE

WHISPERS OF PUEBLO DAYS PAST.

Home to early Native Americans.

Spanish missionary outpost. Thriving artist colony.

A crossroads of culture and history.

A SENSE of DISCOVERY. A SENSE of PLACE.

LOCATION

Set in the cultural heart of New Mexico's capital, the Inn is situated just steps from the city's galleries, shops, museums and the historic Santa Fe Plaza. The surrounding area offers activities for the adventurous spirit with seasonal pursuits such as hiking, mountain biking, skiing, white-water rafting and golf; popular destinations such as Canyon Road, Taos and Bandelier National Park are all within driving distance.

ACCOMMODATION

The Inn features 57 rooms and one suite, all with handcrafted furnishings, traditional wooden ceilings and kiva fireplaces. Guest room interiors reflect a modern, sophisticated aesthetic while still celebrating the hotel's Southwestern spirit. A restful palette of natural earth tones, thoughtful accents and upscale amenities combine to create a fresh residential sensibility – an elegant retreat with timeless appeal.

DINING

- ANASAZI RESTAURANT: The hotel's award-winning restaurant presents cuisine that fuses Southwestern and Argentinean flavors. Rustic decor welcomes guests into a space that is distinctly Southwestern and accented throughout with regional artistry
- THE BAR: Popular with both visitors and locals, the bar is best known for its classic cocktails, locally brewed beers and Southwestern-inspired menu

- THE PATIO: The New Mexican sunset beckons travelers to relax and dine al fresco. A charming place to take in the rhythm of the nearby Santa Fe Plaza, the patio features a small plate menu, made-to-order margaritas and more

MEETINGS & EVENTS

The Inn is a popular year-round destination for corporate, incentive and leisure groups of up to 50 participants. The hotel's event spaces include The Library, featuring natural sunlight and rich hardwood floors, and the Wine Cellar for events as varied as private candle-lit dinners and board meetings.
