

Design Development

Using the scene, I start to study every posture and viewpoints and map out to a mind map. Using the mind map as a key guide to create an impression on the installation. The initial idea was have viewing boxes in different angle and direction to create a state of uncomfortableness as one look at the opening.