

NOTION OF DISORIENTATION

To interact with this device, one has to look through the viewing boxes in an uncomfortable position as it portrays the body posture of the foreigner and each viewing box shows parts of overall image. This device aims to let the end user experience the emotional state when one is lost in foreign land trying to find his friends. The end user will experience the uncomfortableness of their body as they view the image in the viewing box and will also experience slight confusion as some pictures in the viewing box are tilted.
