

“Hispanic leadership through graduate management education and professional development.”

That is the goal as stated by The National Society of Hispanic MBAs (NSHMBA)*. We at Pace University’s Lubin School of Business, couldn’t agree more.

So we are partnering with NSHMBA to present graduate programs that are flexible, affordable, and that accommodate your life and work schedule.

Consider the following Nilsa:

- Our Executive MBA leverages the power of the Internet to provide a first-rate MBA program.
- Most MBA degrees can be earned in two to three years.
- A Dual Concentration MBA requires only nine credits more than a conventional MBA.

Pace also provides:

1. Career counseling and advanced level, paid internship opportunities.
2. Merit Scholarships for both full and part-time study for the summer and fall 2015 semesters.
3. The flexibility of convenient locations in New York City and Westchester, NY.

And, if you already have an MBA or an M.S., you can acquire licensing or certification through our Advanced Graduate Certificate Program (AGC).
